

Conducting the Course on a College Campus

Here Are Some Ideas to Gain the Most Benefit

DAVE WILLIAMS

MINISTRIES

www.davewilliams.com

1. Select dates, times, and location.
2. Advertise around the campus: brochures, campus newspaper, etc. “How to Get Light Years Ahead in Your Career,” by learning the universal biblical principles of Pacesetting Leadership. Don’t be an “also ran;” be the leader you were meant to be. (Focus on the benefits to the students and their future).
3. Do not coerce attendance.
4. Get some good intercessors praying for your event ahead of time.
5. Invite non-believers (pre-Christians). Don’t deceive them but let them know these principles are from the Bible, but you won’t pressure them to become a Christian.
6. Have your campus team hand out brochures and ads about the course, all the while praying for each person who receives an invitation.
7. Decide on how you want to break up the course, ie: 4 week segments, 8 week segments, or 16 weeks (or days) straight through.
8. Assign cohort leaders to lead small groups after each session (for about one-half hour) to discuss the content, pray, and find ways of implementing the principles immediately.
9. You may want to make the course required for your campus ministry leaders before offering a public venue.
10. Open the session with a simple prayer and greeting, maybe a worship song, and get right into the video. Show the videos in their proper order.
11. See the criteria for graduation and adhere to it
12. Go over mid-term exam and final exam with students
13. Plan a graduation celebration—make it fun and holy.
14. Sign their certificates of completion. Make a big deal about their graduation from the Art of Pacesetting Leadership. Lay hands on them and pray over each one briefly with a blessing from God. Honor the graduates.
15. If you would like them to receive a personal “congratulations” from Dave Williams, send us their names and contact addresses to info@davewilliams.com.
16. Please send us feedback forms, pictures of your group, and anything we can use to encourage our partners who provided this course and to help us encourage our partners to provide this course for other campus ministries, Teen Challenges, and Home Missions Churches. Thank you! Write or e-mail: Dave Williams | P.O. Box 80825 | Lansing, MI 48908-0825 | info@davewilliams.com | 517.731.0000.

ENJOY THE PACESETTING LIFE!